Bill Shea: Statistics are alarming

At a recent meeting of the Carbondale Area Alcohol and Drug Abuse Task Force, Mr. Bill Shea, publicity representative of the newly-formed group brought to light some surprising statistics regarding Lackawanna County. The following article was researced and written by Mr. Shea for the Carbondale NEWS.

Ask the average person what they think Lackawanna County is a state and national statistic leader in, and the answer might be "unemployment, no per capita income or a high percentage of senior citizens" - all correct.

However, outside of the professional field, very few people are aware that Lackawanna County ranks among the five leading counties in the United States in ratio of alcoholism in its population.

Alcohol in by far our hardest drug and is the biggest drug problem in that it kills, disables, addicts and makes psychotic passages from the Bible. Call Dial-A-Devotion, (717) 282-9152.

National surveys found to the massive abuse of alcohol than to murder, the percent of high school students use alcohol. The report also shows that the epidemic is spreading among elementary school students, with many starting to drink heavily as early as age 12 or 13.

Because we can no more accept or resign ourselves to the massive abuse of alcohol than to murder, the Carbondale Area Alcohol and Drug Abuse Task Force is committed to supporting programs for preventional education is schools, counseling for parents and students, and support for liquor law enforcement.

Tom O'Boyle honored by Vandling firemen

Tom O'Boyle, a veteran volunteer fireman, whose name has become synonymous with the Vandling Hose Company, was honored by his brother firemen on January 15 at the Vandling Firehouse.

O'Boyle received an award commemorating more that 40 years of service to the hose company and shared the spotlight at the annual installation of officers party.

A former basketball standout at Vandling High School, Tom joined the hose company in 1941 as a lantern boy. After a distinguished term of military service during World War II, he returned to the hose company where he advanced through the ranks ultimately serving as fire chief for a number of years.

Tom's reputation as a knowledgeable firefighter is known throughout Northeastern Pennsylvania. Through an assortment of fire schools and many volunteer hours of self-tutoring, he managed to keep pace with the ever-changing firefighting techniques.

Tom retired from Farview State Hospital in Waymart but continued as an active firefighter. His familiar "10-4" still echoes over the airwaves during an alarm of fire and his presence at the scene still welcomed and appreciated.

"Tom is going into sort of a semi-retirement from the hose company, but frankly I doubt if he will hang up his firefighting equipment permanently," fire Chief Joe Amadio said. "He has too much dedication and concern for his fellow human beings to call it quits just like that," Chief Amadio added.

"Whatever he does," the fire chief continued, "we want him to know that his years of service to the Vandling Hose Company and the people of our area have not been forgotten. Tom O'Boyle has been to valuable a person to simply let slip quietly from among us. He deserves recognition and we intend to see that he gets it."

Chamber to expand activities

Directors of the Carbondale Area Chamber of Commerce held a "brainstorming" session on Wednesday, January 11 under the direction of Mr. Del Bossard, economic development and community service manager of P.P.L. in Scranton.

Attending the meeting were directors Boyd Todd, Tom Chesnick, Joe Siconolfi, Henry Deecke, Chip Calabro, Rosemary Heth and Pete Smith, and chamber secretary, Joan Connor.

"Increasing membership in the Chamber of Commerce is vital-businesses should not even consider not belonging," Mr Bossard said. "They will ask, however, what the benefits of membership are, and that's why we're here tonight."

The group then discussed some of their past and present services and accomplishments such as serving as information center, coordinating free business counseling sessions with the University fo Scranton, sponsoring the annual Harold Snedecker Scholastic Award, promoting business and industry, annual raffles clinic, and its upcoming fingerprinting of children for "Operation Child Find."

This was followed by suggestions on what the Chamber might begin to do to serve its members better. Among the suggestions offered were, printing a newsletter, initiating a visitation committee, sponsoring a general membership dinner meeting with a speaker, and joining the state or national Chamber of Commerce.

As a direct result of the meeting a questionnaire is being compiled and will be sent to non-member businesses and a second questionnaire will be compiled and sent to members. Current membership stands at 201.

"A Chamber of Commerce must present a positive unified effort in order to get ahead for the area they represent," concluded Mr. Bossard.

Toll free mortgage aid hotline installed

State Senator Robert J. Mellow (D-Lackawanna) said recently that unemployed homeowners who are interested in obtaining mortgage aid under the state's new "Homeowners' Emergency Mortgage Assistance Act" should not hesitate in calling a new toll free number established for the program.

The number, 1-800-342-2397, connects the caller with the Pennsylvania Housing Finance Agency which is currently developing guidelines for the mortgage assistance program enacted by the General Assembly in December.

The toll free number was established to answer questions about the program and to take names of prospective applicants.

Since I would expect there will be thousands taking advantage of this program statewide, it would be a good idea for people who think they qualify to get their names in now, said Mellow.

The legislation, which nas already resulted in a temporary moratorium on home mortgage foreclosures, call for the creation of a special fund to provide three year emergency loans to homeowners facing foreclosure because of circumstances beyond their control.

Keep hydrants clear

Fire Chief William Burrell urges city residents to clean snow and ice away from fire hydrants.

In the event of an emergency, hydrants covered with snow or ice can become a hazard and delay fire-fighting efforts.

Too big a fine

In last week's article regarding dog licenses, it was stated that fines for failure to obtain a license would be $50,000. The correct cost of a fine for first time offenders is $500 plus court costs.
